D-M delivers Joint Patriot 2001 Close Air Support

Senior Airman Thomas Puckett, 357th Fighter Squadron "Dragons," puts water intrusion plugs on a 358th Fighter Squadron A-10 during Joint Patriot 2001. Fifty-one Davis-Monthan AFB members deployed to Hill AFB, Utah, June 11 to 15 to test Army National Guard units in combat readiness as part of the exercise. Members from the 357th and 358th Fighter squadrons, 355th Equipment Maintenance, Component Repair, Supply, and Operations Support squadrons deployed in support of the exercise. D-M officials sent six A-10s to fly sorties and test the Army in combat readiness. The pilots were able to fly more sorties than planned, thanks to the efforts of the maintainers. They faced some challenging weather conditions while keeping the aircraft fit for flying. The mission of the deployed A-10s was to hit pre-selected targets while protecting ground troops; the team pulled together and accomplished the task.

Change-of-command transportation

Spectators can take a shuttle to the 355th Wing change of command ceremony this morning at the 42nd Airborne Command and Control Squadron Hangar from the following points (shuttles run continuously from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m.):

- ◆ 355th Support Group Building 3200
- ◆ 355th Logistics Support Group Building 5500
- ◆ 355th Medical Group Building 417

The ceremony starts at 9 a.m. Col. Paul Schafer will assume command of the 355th Wing from Col. Bobby Wilkes.

Underage Drinking Task Force, Services introduce Stormy's Cyber Café

By Angie Erickson
355th Wing Public Affairs

The Underage Drinking Task Force has been in operation for less than one year, however despite such a short time, they can be congratulated for their efforts to implement activities and programs that make a positive difference on Davis-Monthan AFB.

One example of their constructive influence is Thursday's grand opening of Stormy's Cyber Café, located in Building 4201, now known as the Desert Lightning Community Center.

"We're making some headway through the task force to combat underage drinking," said Col. Francis Hendricks, 355th Wing Support Group commander and UDTF chairman. "Under the Community Action Information Board (CAIB), the UDTF is working with organizations across the wing in an open forum to address prevention and education of underage

UPAR responsibilities

UPARs are responsible for being the “eyes and ears” of the 355th public affairs office. Each and every squadron on base has unique individuals in it that have an interesting story to tell, whether it is about sports, awards, lifesaving acts, IDEA program contributions, etc.

Each of your squadrons are also making improvements to the methods or process that they use or to squadron facilities or community areas via self help projects. UPARs are responsible for getting the information to the public affairs staff in a usable format and in a timely manner.

Not every idea is going to get picked up. The staff focuses on issues that effect the base populace in general, but it never hurts to present ideas to your squadron UPARs so that they can judge the input for newsworthiness or unique human interest appeal and forward it to the staff.

The following are some of the areas we hope to utilize UPARs to tell your squadron’s story (based on skills):

- ◆ Provide news ideas as well as write and shoot photos of squadron activities for submission to the base newspaper
- ◆ Review and solicit Hometown News Release submissions
- ◆ Review their squadron’s submissions to the base TV Channel (75)
- ◆ Seek volunteers for tours and speaking engagements

Commander's Greeting

By Col. Paul Schafer
355th Wing commander

It's great to back in Tucson, and it is great to be your new commander! We first drove through the Craycroft Gate almost 20 years ago, when I was a second lieutenant. We were back again in 1992 and culminated my three-year tour as squadron commander of the 357th Dragons. I can assure you; in both 1981 and 1995, I never dreamed I would one day command the wing.

Rae, Dan, Amy and I have been overwhelmed by your hospitality since we arrived last weekend. From the first sharp salute at the gate, the friendly personnel at billeting, and the many warm greetings, it has been a wonderful start to a new command. We have enjoyed reacquainting ourselves with old friends, and anticipate making many new ones. Thanks for all your kindness.

Though coming back to Davis-Monthan is a homecoming, it is amazing how much has changed. In the spring of 1998, I came here and checked out in the A-10 prior to my command in Kuwait. Even in the short span of three years, this is a much-improved place to live, work and play. I follow a commander who has worked hard to improve the 355th Wing, and it shows.

Col. Paul Schafer
355th Wing Commander

Rae and I wish Colonel and Mrs. Wilkes a fond farewell, and congratulations on their new command, CADRE at Maxwell AFB.

I am looking forward to the next few weeks, going around and visiting each of your organizations. It is the people who make Team DM as great as it is, and I will make every effort to visit all the parts of this great command.

Next month the command chief and I will visit Southwest Asia, to meet with many of the deployed members of the wing supporting AEF 5 and 6.

I am truly proud and

Commander's Salute

honored to assume command of the 355th Wing. I approach the job with a great deal of enthusiasm. I know we will work together to make the wing better, and make lasting changes.

Pool opens

Preston Bates and Cory Sitler are the first to jump into the Davis-Monthan AFB swimming pool this season; the pool opened June 22 following renovations to the facility. Admission is by season or daily pass. Single season passes are $35, or $60 for a family (any size). Daily use is $1.50 for adults, $1 for children, and $2 for guests. The pool is open daily except Mondays, through Aug. 17, then weekends and holidays through October. Tuesday to Friday pool hours are lap swim, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. (free for active duty; others pay $1); open swim, 1 to 5 p.m., and family swim, 5 to 6 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and holiday hours are open swim, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and family swim, 5 to 6 p.m. Children's lessons start Tuesday, July 17 and 31. Sessions cost $25 with a season pass, and $30 without. Aqua aerobics classes are Tuesdays through Fridays, at 11:30 a.m. One-hour sessions are $2 each, or $20 for four weeks. No pool pass or advance registration needed. Get further information from Outdoor Rec, at 8-3736.

Tips to keep electric bills down

By incorporating the following measures into our daily routines, the base utility costs can be significantly altered:

- ◆ Keep the summer sunlight out of your home by closing the drapes and shades.

Sunlight entering through windows counts for 10 percent to 15 percent of home air conditioning costs.

- ◆ Set your air conditioning thermostats between 76 to 78 degrees Fahrenheit. Every degree above 75 degrees saves 5 to 7 percent on a cooling bill

- ◆ Do not reset the temperature of the thermostat down when you turn them on.

- ◆ Turn the thermostat on your hot water heater down to 115 degrees.

Hot water heating comprises 14 percent of a house utility bill.

- ◆ Replace incandescent lights with compact fluorescent lights.

- ◆ When cooking, match pan size to burner size.

- ◆ Turn electric burners off several minutes before allotted time.

- ◆ Use small ovens and toasters instead of kitchen ovens. This reduces the "heat load" the air conditioner must then remove.

- ◆ Dress cooler and wear lighter weight clothing indoors when appropriate.

- ◆ At the end of the workday turn the thermostat above 80 degrees in your office.

- ◆ Turn off unneeded lights.

Electric bills sizzle in summer

By David Smith

355th Civil Engineer Squadron energy manager

The 101 critical days of summer are here, the heat is on and the utility bills are smokin'.

Last summer, the base's electric bill was $2 million, and the bill this summer may be close to $3 million.

While California, and potentially the east coast, are having rolling blackouts, there are not any electricity problems in Tucson.

Tucson Electric Power (TEP) has the ability and capacity to generate all the electricity required in our area, but it is going to cost.

The majority of the facilities on Davis-Monthan use electricity as the energy source to for cooling.

As a result, all employees and residents of the installation need to observe energy conservation measures whenever possible to help keep our utility costs at a minimum.

Why should residents and employees get involved? Even though most people are not billed individually for these costs, the high utility bills are passed along indirectly.

Money that could otherwise be spent on homes and offices for badly needed repairs is instead used to light, heat, or cool the base facilities.

Following guidelines will reduce energy consumption on base, and save money that can be used on quality-of-life projects to make Davis-Monthan AFB an even better place to live and work.

Khobar Towers anniversary

Air Force officials are very pleased with the announcement of indictments against 14 terrorists thought to be responsible for the Khobar Towers bombing five years ago. The Air Force lost 19 airmen in addition to hundreds who were wounded in this terrorist attack. "As an Expeditionary Aerospace Force, we operate in harm's way on a global basis every day. These indictments send the message to all terrorists that they will be hunted down and will pay for their crimes," said Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Mike Ryan. The general also expressed his sincere condolences to all the families affected by this egregious act. "Their loved ones have not been forgotten. The legacy of these individuals lives on every day with the men and women of their units in the entire United States Air Force," he said.

Base hosts fireworks celebration

The second annual Olde Time 4th of July celebration will be held at Bama Park.

ID card holders and their guests are invited to attend; coolers and pets are not allowed. Jumping castles, games and balloons are available for the children. Outdoor Rec will also sponsor children's games on the football fields. Come early and bring: sunblock, chairs, water and money; refreshments and souvenirs will be sold. Call Jody Evans at 8-3841 or Capt. Dawn Lancaster at 8-6908 for more information about the event. This also marks the 30th anniversary of the 355th Wing at D-M.

Road closure

To make this event better than last year, all three gates will be open.

The main gate will be open 24 hours, Swan Road Gate will be open from 4 to 10:30 p.m., and Wilmot Road Gate will be open from 4 to 10 p.m.

The following roads will be blocked off:

- Nuggat and Yuma roads intersection;
- Yuma and Craycroft roads intersection;
- Craycroft at the Yuma, Tempe and Craycroft roads intersection;
- Picacho and Yuma roads intersection;
- Picacho and Alamo roads intersection;
- Arizola and Sunglow roads intersection;
- and the Wilmot and Quijota roads intersection.

Swan Road Gate parking is at the 612th

Air Operations Group apron area.

Disabled parking is at Outdoor Rec and Distinguished Visitor parking is at the golf course. DVs and physically disabled individuals must use the Craycroft Road or Wilmot Road gates to gain access to these parking areas.

Bus route and parking

No parking is allowed along Ironwood or Seventh Street (this is part of the shuttle route). For ID cardholders coming from off base, there will be mass parking on the concrete pad at Heritage park. A shuttle service will run from Heritage Park to Borman Elementary to Smith Elementary with the drop-off point at Bama Park.

Schedule of Events

4 p.m. - Food and souvenir booths open and DJ music begins

5:30 p.m. - Band performs "Sticky White Chocolate"

6 p.m. - Presentation of the Colors and a welcome given by the new 355th Wing commander

8:30 p.m. - 25-minute fireworks display synchronized to music begins drinking."

Through, its subcommittees, Hendricks says the UDTF 'partners' to implement their ideas. "That's how we came up with the idea of Stormy's Cyber Café," said Hendricks. "The young airmen wanted and needed a place to go in the evenings that would give them positive alternatives to underage drinking."

They teamed up with the 355th Services Squadron who conducted a survey in search of what those alternatives might be.

Hendricks credits Lt. Col. Mike Archuleta, 355th Services Squadron commander, for his vision to meet the needs of the task force. "The survey asked the young men and women what they wanted to see if the Community Center was converted into a facility to meet their needs," said Hendricks.

Dorm residents responded with the idea of a home away from home that eventually resulted in Stormy's Cyber Café.

"We wanted to make the facility as comfortable as possible," said Frances Pientack, Community Center manager. "We are providing a facility that is alcohol free, tobacco free and planned activities that are sure to appeal to everyone."

There are computers in place for Internet access, a TV room with a 55-inch digital screen that will play the latest Blockbuster's DVD releases, a game room with pool tables, air hockey, ping-pong and foosball. Memorabilia items will be sold to include hats, shirts and mugs.

The café will have a variety of goodies to choose from serving hot and cold beverages, bagels and pastries from Bruegger's Bagels as well as other snack items ranging in price from $.65 to $3.00. These snacks can be enjoyed on one of two patios or in the hip café setting. Refill cups are also available for purchase.

Although Stormy's has targeted ages 15 to 21, the Community Center is still planning on continuing their normal activities open to all military ID cardholders which include: guitar, piano and dance lessons, chair massages and more. New additions include the Information, Tickets & Travel Office and balloon sales.

The new hours will be 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 6 to 1 a.m. Friday, 9 to 1 a.m. on Saturday and 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Sunday.

"All eyes are on D-M as a result of this project. If this facility thrives, then it will be replicated across the Air Force," said Hendricks.

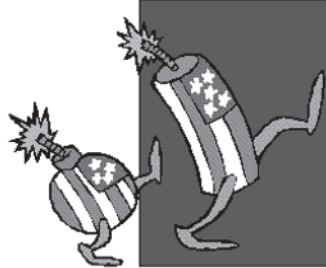

Call 8-3717 for more information about Stormy's Cyber Café or Capt. Patricia Muth, UDTF administrative recorder, to inquire about the UDTF at 8-4580.

Army & Air Force Exchange Service

Education ... a major Air Force benefit

By Col. Michael Sotak
355th Wing inspector general

As I look back over my Air Force career, one of the major benefits I find with the military and especially in the Air Force, is education.

It seems to me the entire mission of the Air Force is linked to some aspect of improving yourself through education.

There never seems to be a time when you are too far from a class which is needed to improve your skills and job performance.

Of course I put education at the top of my list for self-improvement and job satisfaction. While I have been pleased with the continual attitude in the Air Force to stress higher learning.

As a young recruit just entering the Air Force, it is hard to put into perspective how much time and energy you will devote to expanding your knowledge.

Almost every day is devoted to some aspect of learning from understanding the new change to the Air Force Instructions or regulations, to studying your Career Development Courses, to attending college courses for your own self improvement.

I am sure you can remember your first year in the Air Force and how much time was spent in the books.

Basic training was a completely unique experience that changed your whole outlook on life.

Next, we ship you off to your initial "tech" school or to pilot training, expanding your horizons and making you a useful member of the Air Force.

This is your first introduction to regulations and technical orders. You soon realize that these publications will be your guiding light for your career.

You need to just about memorize them in order to reach the high level of job performance expected.

Many Air Force members think that this is the end to their educational days – but in reality they are just beginning.

Now you step into recurring training, upgrading, CDCs plus the day-to-day push by the Department of Defense for alcohol/driving under the influence classes, gender sensitivity training and even anthrax education.

What good or purpose does this serve to the average Air Force member?

Senior Airman Amy Kunkel

Col. Michael Sotak (left) talks with Master Sgt. Sonya Martin in his office. Martin is the Superintendent of Inspections for the 355th Wing Inspector General.

More than likely, all the training will mean more money in your pocket.

In order to get promoted you need your three-level, five-level and to pass the CDCs - education is the needed ingredient for all those steps.

The Air Force tries very hard to open the door to education for all its members.

It takes your initiative and open mind to take advantage of the opportunity.

Get ahead by improving your mind.

Good luck with your Air Force career.

Study examines public acceptance of underage drinking prevention policies

Results show support for teen drinking measures

Individual factors, such as concern for young people or frequency of drinking, are better predictors of public support for initiatives designed to curb underage drinking than demographic traits, such as age or race, according to a new study conducted by the Johns Hopkins School of Public Health. The study also suggests there is broad public support for such initiatives, regardless of political-party affiliation. The results are extremely beneficial to alcohol policy advocates who want to mobilize public support to control underage drinking. The study is among the first to examine individual and demographic traits to predict public attitudes toward alcohol policy. The findings appear in the April 16 issue of Alcoholism: Clinical and Experimental Research.

"Underage drinking is a significant problem in the United States, but local government agencies and community groups have very limited resources to battle the problem. If these groups are going to build support for change, they need to know who is listening and who supports these changes. With this information, policy advocates can target their message to have the greatest impact and enlist the greatest support," explains William Latimer, PhD, lead author of the study and assistant professor of mental hygiene at the Johns Hopkins School of Public Health.

Underage drinking in the United States is associated with traffic accidents, school failure, delinquency, and sexually-transmitted diseases among adolescents, according to previous studies. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration says that traffic accidents are the leading cause of death among young people between the ages of 15 and 20. More than 30 percent of these deaths are alcohol related.

For the study, researchers contacted 7,000 adults older than 18 through a nationwide random telephone survey. The investigators asked each person to indicate his or her level of support for tax increases on alcohol and policies that regulate alcohol marketing, public consumption of alcohol, alcohol distribution, and youth access to alcohol.

Next, the researchers compiled demographic and individual data on each person contacted. Respondents were asked questions about the frequency at which they drank alcohol and their level of concern for drunk driving, smoking, and sex among teens. Each person was also asked a series of questions to gauge awareness of teen issues, such as teen alcohol use and violence, proposed tax increases to deter teen drinking, and the marketing of alcohol to young people.

see Underage, Page 9

Underage

Overall, the study shows that women, infrequent drinkers, and adults who are aware of teen issues or have concern for teens, most often supported all of the measures to curb underage drinking. Older adults supported regulating public consumption of alcohol. Younger adults in the study, or those under age 25, showed little support for measures that regulate distribution of alcohol, but did support tax increases designed to discourage underage drinking.

Among each person's individual traits, concern for teens was generally the strongest predictor of support for all of the alcohol policies.

Latimer said previous awareness campaigns such as "Just say no" or "This is your brain on drugs" were specifically targeted to encourage young people to stay away from drugs. The study suggests that increasing awareness among adults about the many bad outcomes that happen when young people drink may help by facilitating the promotion of traits that ultimately lead to changes in policy. The facts about underage drinking

- ◆ Underage drinking in the United States is associated with traffic accidents.
- ◆ The slowing of reflexes and decrease in judgment are not something that happens just to others; it happens to everyone.
- ◆ Underage drinking in the United States is associated with school failure.
- ◆ Underage drinking in the United States is associated with delinquency and vandalism.
- ◆ Underage drinking in the United States is associated with sexually transmitted diseases.
- ◆ Traffic accidents are the leading cause of death among young people between the ages of 15 and 20.— More than 30 percent of these deaths are alcohol related.
- ◆ Illness, accidents and crime linked to alcohol abuse cost society more than $250 billion per year worldwide.
- ◆ Approximately 5 percent of (U.S.) adults are likely to be alcohol abusers or alcohol dependent.
- ◆ Another 20 percent misuse alcohol enough to be considered at increased risk for accidental injuries, medical conditions and psychological problems.
- ◆ Male drivers between the ages of 15 and 24 years old have 48.2 auto-related deaths per 100,000 population, a rate 2 1/2 times the national average.
- ◆ Female drivers between the ages of 15 and 24 years have 18.4 auto-related deaths per 100,000 population which approximates the national average.
- ◆ Nighttime is the most frequent time to find intoxicated drivers on the road.

2000 Davis-Monthan AFB Drinking Water Consumer Confidence Report released

How is the quality of drinking water on Davis-Monthan AFB?
We are pleased to report that our drinking water is safe and meets federal and state requirements. Davis-Monthan AFB routinely monitors over 200 constituents in your drinking water according to federal and state laws. The table below shows the analytical results of constituents that have exceeded detectable limits throughout our continuous monitoring for the period of January 1st 1994 to November 20th 2000.

As you will see in the table, only 12 contaminants exceeded their detection limits but none have exceeded the maximum contaminant level (MCL) set forth by federal and state regulations. Davis-Monthan was in violation for not monitoring one of the contaminants, nitrate, during the calendar year of 2000. This violation was remedied by sampling for nitrate during the calendar year 2001 (for more information on this violation, see paragraph under table).

What is a Consumer Confidence Report and why am I receiving it?

This is a report on the quality of water delivered by Davis Monthan AFB to its residents. It is mandated by the Environmental Protection Agency under the "Consumer Confidence Reporting Rule" of the federal Safe Drinking Water Act. Public water systems, which supply drinking water must publish a report every year by the 1st July. This report presents information on the source of our water, its constituents and the health risks associated with contaminants.

Generally, where does drinking water come from?

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife. Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming. Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff, and residential uses. Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic systems. Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

Where does the water on Davis-Monthan AFB come from?
Our ground water is drawn from eleven wells throughout the base. The well water is introduced to the base distribution system through eight points of entry. These eight POEs are where the majority of samples are collected for analysis and then compared to Environmental Protection Agency and State of Arizona standards.

Why is our water tested?
In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. This testing is conducted by the 355th Aerospace Medicine Squadron, Bioenvironmental Engineering Flight. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which must provide the same protection for public health. Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791). We continually monitor the drinking water for contaminants. Our water is safe to drink. Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA and Center for Disease Control (CDC) guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants. These guidelines are also available from the EPA Safe Drinking Water Hotline.

Who do I contact for local information?

If you have questions concerning the content of this report, or would like to review sampling data, please contact the Bioenvironmental Engineering Flight at 228-5369
If you have questions about the distribution system itself or how water is supplied to you, please contact the 355

Civil Engineering Squadron, Utility Element at 228-4167
What does this mean?
This table shows that specific contaminants have been detected in the drinking water, but are far below the EPA Maximum Contaminant Levels.

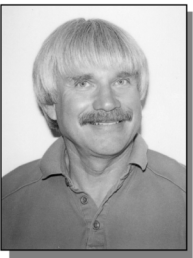

Contaminants Which Have Exceeded Analytical Detection Limits:
Contaminant	Violation Y/N	Level	Detected	Unit Measurement	MCLG	MCL	Likely Source of

Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l) - one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.
Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter - one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years or a single penny in $10,000,000.
Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - picocuries per liter is a measure of the radioactivity in water.
Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant, which if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements, which a water system must follow.
90 th Percentile – (mandatory language) 90 percent of the samples collected have a concentration that is less than this value.
Maximum Contaminant Level - (mandatory language) The "Maximum Allowed" (MCL) is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
Maximum Contaminant Level Goal - (mandatory language) The "Goal"(MCLG) is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below, which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

About our Nitrate violation: Davis-Monthan was in violation for not monitoring the contaminant nitrate during the calendar year of 2000. This violation was remedied by sampling for nitrate during the calendar year 2001 on 28 February. A notice was placed in the Desert Airman on March 30, 2001 to inform customers of the Davis-Monthan AFB water system, PWS #20-549, that the Bioenvironmental Engineering Flight (BEF) failed to monitor for nitrates during calendar year 2000. Public water systems are required by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the Arizona Department of Environmental Quality to monitor the drinking water for nitrates annually. All past results for nitrate are well below the maximum contaminant level (MCL) of 10 mg/L. Results from this calendar year were also below the MCL and can be seen in the table of contaminants above.

Korean War Remembered

[Editor's note: As America recognizes its veterans (through the next two years) to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Korean War, the Desert Airman is chronicling the significant events.] The following significant Air Force events occurred during this week in 1951:

July 1951 marked the beginning of a new phase in the Korean War.

Strategic military considerations of United Nations and Communist commanders centered on armistice negotiations that began this month.

Both sides began to bend their military efforts to effect favorable outcomes in these negotiations. Accordingly, Far East Air Forces increased the tempo of fighter and light-bomber activities in Operation Strangle, particularly against vehicular movements and targets of known troops, supplies, or installations.

As the shortcomings of Operation Strangle became evident, FEAF planners looked for other ways to stem the flow of enemy resources toward the front.

The enormous buildup in the numbers of MiG-15 air supremacy fighters and growing experience and competence of pilots led the enemy to seek air superiority as far south as Pyongyang. Avoiding formidable jet fighter formations escorting FEAF Bomber Command B-29s, the MiGs attacked vulnerable fighter-bomber and reconnaissance aircraft operating north of Pyongyang.

Greatly outnumbered, the F-86s now had to defend UN aircraft engaged in reconnaissance and interdiction operations as well as the bombers operating in the north while fighting the MiG-15s head-to-head for air supremacy.

An absence of major ground activity and decline in airlift requirements coincided with frequent periods of unfavorable weather.

Far East Air Forces also faced growing shortages of aircraft because of attrition and increased numbers of aircraft out of commission.

Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Chief of Staff of the Air Force, notified Gen. Otto Weyland that Far East Air Forces could not expect further augmentation in jet fighters, since a general build-up in Europe required more aircraft.

Also, other aircraft types, particularly B-26s and F-51s, which were experiencing high attrition rates, could not be replaced because they were no longer in production.

July 1

Kim Il Sung, Premier, Democratic Peoples' Republic of Korea and General Paeng Te-huai, Chinese Communist Forces Commander, responded to UN overtures and agreed to participate in truce negotiations. Pioneer in aerial reconnaissance, Col. Karl L. Polifka, USAF, Commander, 67th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, while flying an RF-51 near the front lines, was shot down and killed.

July 6

An Air Materiel Command KB-29M tanker, operated by a Strategic Air Command crew assigned to the 43rd Air Refueling Squadron, conducted the first in-flight refueling over enemy territory under combat conditions. The tanker refueled four RF-80 Shooting Stars flying reconnaissance missions over North Korea.

Senior leaders send holiday messages

July 4, 1776, marked an extraordinary turning point in history. The Declaration of Independence adopted by the Continental Congress was, and still is, a revolutionary step in governance. It focused on the good of the individual as well as the good of society. More than 225 years later, those revolutionary ideas continue to flourish on this globe.

The American Revolution was based on the founding fathers' vision of liberty – one in which they placed all their trust and their very lives. Their courage has inspired countless Americans to serve our country in public life and the armed services to build this great nation. We owe a debt to all those who have gone before us for their sacrifices for our freedom.

To each and every military member and civilian on duty around the world, we salute you. We are proud to serve with you, as together we protect and preserve the extraordinary freedoms won by those who have gone before us.

James Roche, Secretary of the Air Force and

Gen. Michael Ryan, Air Force Chief of Staff

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness."

When Thomas Jefferson penned this famous passage of the Declaration of Independence, he laid out the fundamental principles upon which our democracy was founded. Two hundred twenty-five years later, these timeless principles still guide us in our mission of protecting and defending this great nation. As members of the greatest Air Force in the world, each of you is committed to upholding the unalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Independence Day reminds us every year just how fortunate we are to enjoy those rights. It also reminds us of the price of freedom. In addition to keeping America safe and its borders secure, our airmen are deployed to every corner of the world safeguarding our national interests and protecting the freedoms of other nations. The selfless spirit of duty and sacrifice that characterized the founding fathers still resonates today with our airmen as they carry out the Air Force mission around the world.

As you celebrate Independence Day with family and friends, reflect on your role in safeguarding these "unalienable rights" that Jefferson wrote of so eloquently. Take time to honor those Americans who have given their lives fighting to preserve those rights. And remember those airmen serving away from their families and friends.

Most of all, be proud that you are an American, enjoying the freedoms and rights our forefathers so boldly declared 225 years ago. You have been called to preserve and protect this nation and its people. There is no higher calling.

Youth center

D-M's teens have full calendar set for summer

By Angie Erickson
355th Wing Public Affairs

The Youth Center is a 'happening' place throughout the year, but is especially busy throughout the summer months since most youngsters have the summer off from school.

"We have a full range of activities planned to keep our kids busy," said Armando Bracamonte, Program Director.

While there are activities for all ages and a full staff to facilitate them, Bracamonte focuses on the teens.

"We want to give them something positive to do rather than having them sit in front of the television all summer long.

"We try to open their eyes to the world."

Broaden horizons

From community work to white water rafting, the teens get the opportunity to broaden their horizons.

Each week Bracamonte takes a group of teens to a local church where they assist in feeding the homeless.

"We want the kids to have fun, but at the same time we want to educate them," he said.

"The activities that we do help build confidence, boost self esteem and often leaders emerge.

"These kids could quite possibly be tomorrow's Air Force."

Bracamonte says that although there is adventure involved, safety is first.

"Kids are our business and we want to take care of them and let them have fun."

The kids also get to help choose the activities.

"We have found that if they get to choose what activities they want to do then they are more apt to participate."

Great turnout

He highlighted the most recent teen lock-in where more than 40 youngsters, ages 13 to 18, turned out for the event that they were responsible for planning.

"It was quite impressive since they had planned the activities that lasted throughout the night."

"Our challenge is to keep our teens occupied.

"We may have something planned that is great today, but will still have to meet the challenge of providing a great activity tomorrow," he said.

He says that is where the volunteers come in play.

"Volunteers are a critical part of our success because they offer creativity as well as diverse backgrounds."

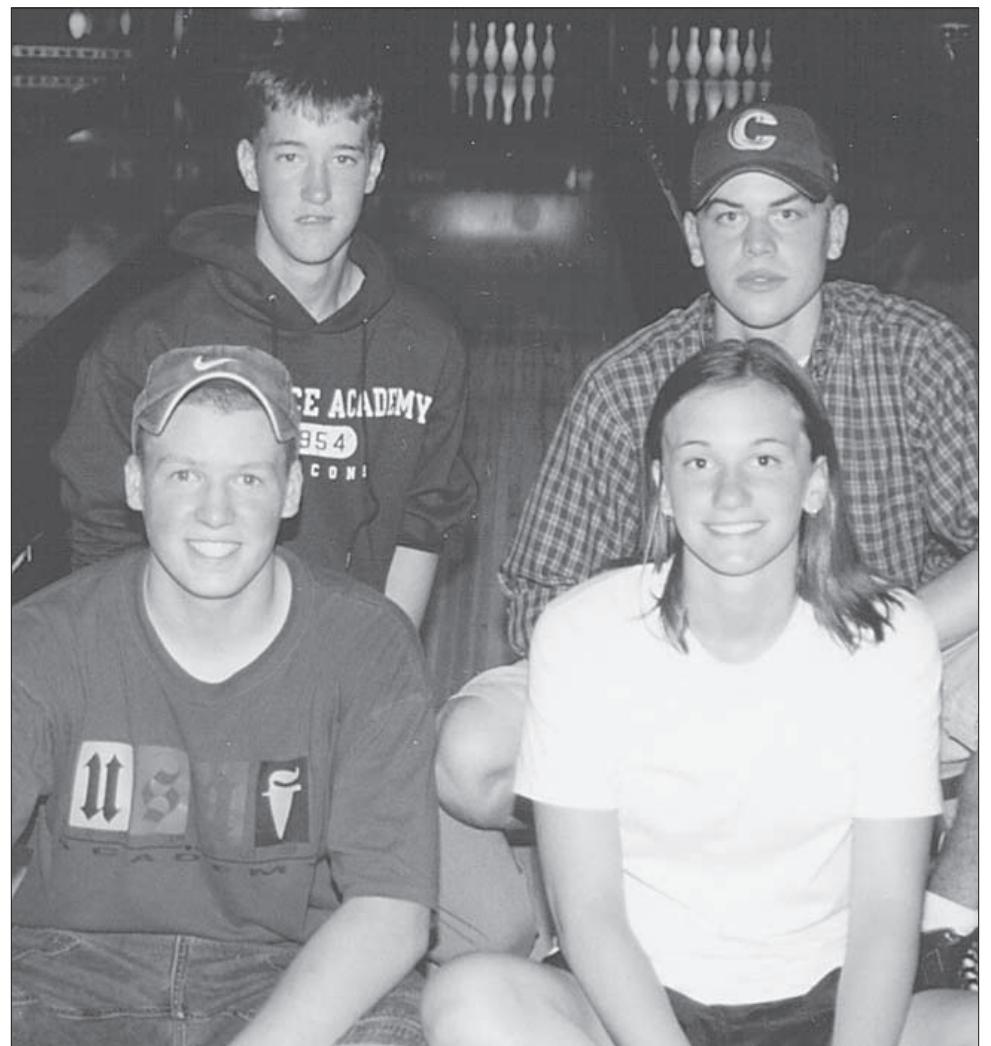

Volunteers get the opportunity to chaperone the teens to off site trips like fishing and to water parks.

They also assist with lock ins, as well as a variety of other programs that can be found on the Youth Center calendar.

The calendar is located on the D-M Intranet site, under the 355th Services Family Member Programs Flight, or at www.dm.af.mil/355svs/newpage6.htm.

They can also be picked up from most SVS's activities.

For more information on how you can become involved at the Youth Center, call 8-8365, or stop by the Youth Center in Building 6000,

James Lovely

From left to right (front row) Mathew Tegeler, Megan Stateler, (back row) Patrick Haythorne and Jonathan Hunolt are just a few of the teens who take advantage of the Youth Center. These teens were selected to attend the week-long Air Force Teen Aviation Camp in Colorado Springs, Colo. During the camp, the teens participated in a team-building ropes and orienteering courses, studied principals of flight, met Air Force Academy professors and used the flight simulators at the Aerodynamics Lab, toured the Cadet Chapel, Visitors Center and U.S. Olympic Training Center. While they were inundated with the education about the academy, they also had a lot of fun as they played free video games for several hours at The Alley video arcade in Arnold Hall, went horseback riding at the Academy Equestrian Center, had a swimming pool party at the fitness center and went bowling at Academy Lanes. Their camp banquet and graduation ceremony was held at the Officer's Club. Most importantly to many of the campers, was the time they spent flying at the Academy. Each camper, after some ground school instruction, was taken for a 20- to 30-minute flight at the Aero Club where they spent a brief time in control of the plane. The next Teen Aviation Camp will be held June 2-7, 2002. Armando Bracamonte, Program Director for the D-M Youth Center encourages teens to start to prepare for this application process by raising grade point averages, becoming more involved in extracurricular activities such as sports or volunteerism. He also recommends that D-M teens stop by the Youth Center to check out the variety of other programs and activities offered throughout the summer.

Youth bowling

D-M youngsters enjoy free and discount bowling all summer at the D-M Lanes.

Open bowling is 50 cents a game, 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., Mondays-Saturdays, and kids bowl at no charge any Monday or Wednesday, 10 a.m. to noon (free and discount bowling excludes shoe rental). Contact the D-M Lanes, pro shop or café at 8-3461.

Firecracker 5K

The fitness center's annual Firecracker 5K Run/Walk is Tuesday, at the new track. Register at 6 a.m. for the 6:15 a.m. event. Find out more from the fitness center at 8-3714.

Bowl for bucks

Air Combat Command's annual Bowling for Bucks promotion is in full swing. Bowling for Bucks, Pinbusters and Bookbusters give adults and kids a chance to win games, cash and prizes.

Bowling for Bucks players get two free games for filling a 10-punch card, and they're eligible for monthly cash and prize drawings and a $500 grand prize drawing.

Pinbusters gives youngsters a free game for completing a five-punch card, and they're eligible for monthly and grand prize drawings. Get cards at D-M Lanes. Not valid with league and special-event games.

Bookbusters, for grades 1 through 12, encourages summer reading. Students get a free game for reading five books from the base library, and are eligible for monthly and grand prize drawings. Cards are issued and validated at the library. ACC's sponsor is MilitaryMoves.com (no federal endorsement intended).

Call D-M Lanes at 8-3461, or the library, at 8-4381.

Golf for less

Summer rates are in effect at the Blanchard Golf Course. Play 18 holes with a cart for $13; guests pay $17.

Walk the course and pay $6; guests are $10. Advance green-fee players can rent carts for only $7, and unlimited golf with cart costs just $10, any day after 4 p.m.

Seasonal discount prices are valid, 9 a.m. to sunset, seven days a week, through Sept. 30. Find out more at the pro shop, 8-3734.
